

north shore news

Wednesday, February 21, 2007

60 pages

Botanical beauties

THE delicate blooms of Allium bulgaricum grace a decorative tile, which artist June Hunter displays in her studio. Hunter uses a 35mm camera to photograph flowers in her garden, then digitally processes the shots to enhance the images before transferring them onto Italian marble tiles, available in eight-inch or four-inch squares. Each tile is titled and signed and marked with the June Hunter logo, and equipped with a hanger on the back. Available in a variety of colours and styles, the tiles can be hung as single pieces or in combinations. They're available on the North Shore at Giftworks in Edgemont Village. Visit www.junehunter.ca to browse a gallery of fine-art botanical images by the artist.

NEWS photo Mike Wakefield