

Urban Living Angela Murrills

CHIC OF THE WEEK

> BY ANGELA MURRILLS

Most fridge magnets are the nadir of naffness, but not June Hunter's. The botanical photographer has transferred hundreds of her flower close-ups to small, square magnets with classy results—so classy that each comes in its own black, velvet drawstring bag. They're $6 each or $20 for a box of four (which you get to pick). Hunter sells them at Granville Island Public Market and Portobello West, but not all the time. To track her down, go to www.junehunter.ca/.